Wilentz Rolls Up New Ammunition For Attack On Hauptmann's Denials

State's Attorneys Confident the Searching Cross-Examination It Has Mapped Will Leave Defendant a Discredited Witness.

THE WORD "BOAD"

It Appeared in Hauptmann Diary and in Kidnap Note Delivered in Return for the Ransom.

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press) Flemington, N. J., Jan. 26.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann fortified his defenses today while the prosecution rolled up new ammunition for its savage attack on his denial that he kidnaped and killed the Lindbergh baby.

Court was in recess, but it was only an armed truce as the defendant studied his stock trading records to account for his affluence after the $50,000 ransom was paid, as his lawyers went to inspect his home in the Bronx, and as state attorneys studied the weak points in his defense.

"He is vulnerable, very vulnerable," said Attorney General David T. Wilentz, who hammered at Hauptmann during the murder trial defendant's first half hour of cross-examination yesterday.

"Wait until we get really started," the attorney general advised.

Hauptmann was almost contemptuous in his remarks about Wilentz. "It seems that the attorney general is trying to get me excited," said the carpenter.

"All I can say to that is that he will have to try a lot harder. I am on to that because I have been told how the prosecution lawyers act. It just won't work. It's no use."

Although Hauptmann appeared shaken when he left the stand yesterday, he voiced satisfaction with the impression he made on the eight men and four women who hold his life in their hands.

State attorneys expressed confidence that the searching, lengthy cross-examination it mapped for Monday would leave Hauptmann a discredited witness, his alibi shattered.

Hauptmann was spending the week-end recess preparing for the clash in which he can expect no quarter. The lean German turned accountant again. He studied his financial records because the state will strive to show the jury that the Lindbergh ransom financed the Hauptmann stock market manipulations.

Cross and redirect examination appeared certain to keep Hauptmann on the stand all day.

Wilentz Hammered Away

The attorney general started by hammering away at the fact Hauptmann was an alien illegally in this country, and then demanded whether the witness had told and was telling the truth.

"You have had the opportunity in this court today and you still have an opportunity this minute to tell the whole truth," he reminded Hauptmann. "Have you told the truth?"

"I told the truth already," was the answer.

That was the opening. Wilentz demanded if the story the witness had told was the same he gave in the Bronx after his arrest.

"To a certain extent," Hauptmann said weakly.

Wilentz flamed that point into the jury's ears for a few moments, and then swung to Hauptmann's criminal record in Germany. He drew from the defendant testimony on his convictions for crime after the World War, his prison term, his subsequent arrests, his escape from jail.

Then the prosecution chief sprung the first surprise of the cross-examination. He thrust into Hauptmann's hand a cheap red memorandum book open at a certain page. His voice was loud, insistent.

"Is that your handwriting?"

"Yes, that's my handwriting," conceded Hauptmann, twisting in his chair.

"Take a look at this word particularly. Tell me if that is your handwriting, that one word there."

The pulled prisoner finally acknowledged. "It looks like my handwriting, but I can't remember I ever put it in."

Handwriting of Hauptmann

Then Wilentz let the jury know the item he was forcing Hauptmann to examine. It was the notation: "22.25 head."

The kidnap note delivered in return for the ransom said the baby was on the "Boad Nelly" and Wilentz wanted no time in bringing the similarity of unspelling combination before the jury.

Hauptmann murmured the book was several years old and he had improved his language.

Amusement in his voice, Wilentz finally asked: "The ransom you don't say you or no in because you know you wrote 'head' when you put the $50,000 down (Dr. J. F. O'Connell) that right?"

"No, sir."

Dr. Wilentz made him admit the spelling was the same, better formed than the one, the matter of writing the same.

Wilentz topped with the word in which five slightly changed rolls of ransom money and small amounts of cash were found, hidden in the Hauptmann garage.

He showed it to Hauptmann and Hauptmann admitted it, explaining

Crazed Son and Mother Kill 2 Relief Workers, Then Commit Suicide

Chicago, Jan. 26 (AP)—A wild pistol assault by a crazed and paralytically crippled university graduate and his mother on Illinois relief workers today had left four persons dead and two wounded.

Enraged because he and his mother had been removed from relief rolls, Henry W. Arden, 27, graduate of the University of Chicago and his mother, Mrs. Ruth Arden, 54, armed with mail order pistols—began their mad attack late yesterday afternoon and did not finish until they had slain two relief workers and themselves.

The relief workers killed were: Miss Alice M. Irwin, 27-year-old graduate of the University of Pittsburgh.

Miss Caroline Wallace, 45-year-old relief supervisor.

Miss Irwin was killed in the Arden's two-room flat on the north side when she went to talk with the Ardens about relief.

After Miss Irwin had been killed, the mother and son who once taught Spanish at North Dakota Agricultural College, walked into the relief station to finish their mad scheme for revenge against the Illinois Emergency relief commission—a plan they apparently had been brooding over for some time.

Upstairs, they met Miss Wallace. "What do you want?" asked Miss Wallace.

"You'll see," shouted young Arden.

With this he drew his weapon and shot Miss Wallace. Arden's mother began firing almost at the same time.

As Miss Wallace sank to the floor more bullets were fired, some crashing into the walls while approximately 50 panicky men and women employees strove desperately to find cover.

Two of them were unsuccessful—Niels Nielsen, 47, vocational director and Miss Hazel Dugan, 25, head stenographer. Both were taken to hospitals. Nielsen was wounded five times in the right thigh by Arden. Miss Dugan was hit in the right arm by one of Mrs. Arden's bullets.

With this the couple turned their weapons on themselves.

Martial Law Is Declared by Allen

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 26 (AP)—Governor O. K. Allen today issued a general martial law order for East Baton Rouge parish.

He did not say who the sheriffs and district attorneys were.

"I wouldn't be a bit surprised if we removed them from office," he asserted.

The senator was asked whether he intended making any charges in connection with the alleged plot.

"Not right now, anyway," he replied. "We are going to hold this civil proceeding to give some men a chance to get on the stand and tell their stories."

The senator was reminded of statements made by members of the armed citizens yesterday that no arrests of their members would be allowed.

—Local scooped.

"Violence is over," he declared. "Nothing's going to happen."

Long delivered his comments while washing and shaving in his hotel suite.

Long said he would be "just an attorney" in the civil proceedings.

He was heavily guarded in the hotel by armed attendants. The entire seventh floor on which his suite is located was guarded, persons stepped out of an elevator on the floor to face armed guards seated in the open door of a room immediately opposite.

Saturday Social Review

One of the most important events of the coming week will be the dinner dance held Wednesday evening, January 30, at Golden Rule Inn in honor of President Roosevelt's birthday anniversary. This ball is but one of many thousands which will be held throughout the United States on that date, the largest of which will be at Chicago, where arrangements are being made at the Stock Yards for a floor to accommodate 50,000 dancers. Although these balls were considered unique in their popularity in 1934, this year will participate in this nationwide social function, and it has been estimated that more than 4,000,000 people will attend. The proceeds will be donated to the further relief of infantile paralysis. This year 70 per cent of the amount raised will be used by the localities in which it is raised to rehabilitate infantile paralysis victims, in their own communities, while the remainder will be donated to the President's Birthday Ball commission for research in the infantile paralysis field.

The committee in charge of the local ball has arranged for dancing to begin at 9 o'clock, while at 11 o'clock a dinner will be served. During the evening there will be a floor show which will in every way be equal to the excellent entertainment offered last year. Charles Sorce, formerly of Highland, promising young tenor singer of New York city, will appear on the program. Mr. Sorce was a sufferer from infantile paralysis and only through his own courageous efforts was able to overcome this handicap sufficiently to continue with the study of music. There will also be a radio hook-up so that those who attend the party may listen to the President's broadcast at 11 o'clock. The committee arranging for the dinner dance are Mrs. John Dwyer, chairman, and Miss Margaret Kennedy, vice chairman, assisted by Mrs. William R. Kraft, Mrs. Thomas Goldrick, Mrs. Clyde Wood and Mrs. Sam N. Mann. It is expected that this National Birthday Ball will be attended by more than 350 guests.

On Saturday, February 9, the Parent-Teacher Associations of the various schools in cooperation with the Junior League will present "The Wizard of Oz" at the high school auditorium. There will be two performances, the first at 1:30 o'clock and the second at 3 o'clock in order to accommodate comfortably the large number of students as well as well as interested adults who will wish to attend. Miss Gertrude Brinier and Mrs. W. Anderson Carl are acting as general chairmen for the Junior League, while Mrs. Joseph Craig is chairman for the P-T. A. groups.

The Business Girls Club of the Y. W. C. A. will meet next Wednesday for their regular supper at 6 o'clock. Later Mrs. Byron Teller will give a review of one of the more recent books for the group.

The Junior League met on Monday of this week at the home of Mrs. Bernard Joy, 52 Main street. Following the regular business session there was a social hour with refreshments. Mrs. Robert R. Rodie poured.

At their meeting Tuesday, January 29, the Kingston Choristers are planning for a social hour to follow the regular rehearsal which will begin at 7:30 o'clock. This meeting will be the first of the new spring term and not only are former members urged to attend, but all interested in joining the club are invited.

In spite of the blizzard and drifted roads, some 25 guests attended the card party held on Wednesday evening of this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew T. E. DeWitt of Hurley for the benefit of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Hurley School. The group spent a most informal and enjoyable evening playing bridge, pinocle and Michigan rummy. Refreshments were served. Those attending the party were Mr. and Mrs. Matthew T. E. DeWitt, Miss Anna DeWitt, Mr. and Mrs. Roger H. Loughran, the Rev. and Mrs. Chester C. Chilton, Mr. and Mrs. Wessells Ten Eyck, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Oliver, Sr., Miss Sara Brink, Miss Charlotte R. Phillips, J. Donald Kent, Miss Anna C. Finn, Miss Margaret G. Finn, Roger Ten Eyck, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Pallen, Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. Lester Stagg, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stauble, Cornelius Oliver, Jr., and Mary E. Welhaf.

Next Monday evening the non-graduating members of the grade school clubs at the Y. W. C. A. will be the hostesses to the club members who are graduating from grammar school, at a costume party. Each member will bring a lunch tied up like a pirate treasure. The Classes are provided for all breeds and colors of each breed and there is a large list of ribbons, trophies and cash prizes. A special cash prize of $2 is offered to the local boy or girl not over fourteen years of age who shows the best short hair cat, to many known only as the "Alley cat" variety.

During last week Mrs. Lanette Elting DuBois of New Paltz attended the celebration at the Waldorf in honor of the 523rd anniversary of Joan of Arc and the silver jubilee of Le Lyceum, French Women's Club of America. Mme. Carlo Polifame of New Paltz is president of this organization while Oscar Tschirky was among the guest speakers.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Woodward of Mahan, Tenn., and Mrs. William Gahagan of Goshen, N. Y., were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wilson of Charlotte street. Mr. and Mrs. Woodward expect to sail for Chile, South America, today.

On Wednesday of this week Mrs. Olive Sarre entertained at a small luncheon at her home, Yama Farms Inn, Wawarsing. Those attending from Kingston were Mrs. George Washburn and Mrs. Edgar Richards.

Mrs. Francis J. Higginson entertained at a small supper party at the House and Garden, Green street, last Sunday evening for several of her friends at the Huntington. Her guests were Mr. and Mrs. Carlton S. Preston, Miss Martha W. Shute, Mrs. Birge Harrison and Miss Mary E. Noone.

Mrs. John D. Schoonmaker of the Governor Clinton Hotel has been spending several days this week in New York city.

Yesterday Arthur Kurtznacker of 52 Main street left for his home in North Chatham, N. Y., where he is spending the week-end.

Miss Janet Fowler, who has been at the Governor Clinton Hotel with her mother, recuperating from an attack of grip, has now returned to New York city.

Mrs. Frederick Hibbard of Clinton avenue, who has been spending the past six weeks with Dr. and Mrs. Rutledge of Louisville, Ky., has returned home.

Mrs. Rose K. Witter of 117 Fair street left yesterday for New York city, where she has gone for a week-end of plays. While in New York Mrs. Witter is stopping at the Hotel Lincoln.

On Thursday Mrs. Charles Appleton Warren of Clinton avenue entertained at several tables of bridge. Later the group was joined by a number of friends for tea. Mrs. Helen Westbrooke assisted the hostess by pouring.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Washburn of Saugerties entertained at a dinner party at their home on Monday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Rutgers Hurry, who will soon leave for a trip to California. Besides the guest of honor, those attending the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. George V. Hutton, Mrs. George Washburn and E. Clarke Reed.

Mrs. Hermon A. Kelley, who has been spending several weeks at the Governor Clinton Hotel, left this week for Winter Park, Florida, where as usual she will remain until spring.

Miss Laura Crawford of Lucas avenue left on Sunday, January 20, for Palm Beach, Fla., where she will spend some time.

Jay Gould of New York city spent this past week-end at his summer home, "Forge Cottage" at Seneca, N. Y., where he enjoyed several days of winter sports.

Mr. and Mrs. William Klingman of Highland avenue spent last week-end in New York city. While there they stopped at the Commodore Hotel.

On Tuesday afternoon Miss Catherine Hasbrouck of Stone Ridge entertained at two tables of bridge at her home. The Shop in the Garden.

Miss Nancy Hatty of "Nedra's Mountain House", Woodstock, spent several days the early part of the week as the guest of Miss Agnes Scott Smith at her home, 222 Hurley avenue. The Misses Jane and Ethel Mauterstock of Hurley street, with Miss Florence McTague, a music pupil of Miss Ethel Mauterstock, left for New York city this morning, where they will attend the matinee performance of Gonod's opera, "Romeo and Juliet." Among those singing the leading roles will be Martinielli and Gladys Swarthout.

A hundred guests attended the banquet held on Wednesday evening of this week by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Union Hose Company of Ponckhockie in honor of the tenth anniversary of the founding of the auxiliary organization. Following the delicious chicken dinner, Mrs. Julia Kain, president of the auxiliary, welcomed the guests and thanked them for their cooperation during ten years of her incumbency as president. She then introduced the toastmaster, Joseph F. Sullivan, who in turn introduced Edward F. Moran, president of the fireboard, Charles J. Mullen, fire commissioner, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, Deputy Chief Frederick M. Leveche, Alderman Ashby, Supervisor Feeney and William J. Keating, fireman of Union Hose Company. Mr. Keating spoke in behalf of his company and congratulated the ladies, thanking them for their valued assistance. He also thanked Mrs. Kain, who had served the auxiliary as devotedly as president ever since its founding. A special feature of the dinner was the recognition of the members of the company who had served forty years in the volunteer fire department. The men who were especially honored for such service were John P. McGraw, Joseph McGraw, Thomas J. Murphy and Thomas A. Hafferty. Before departing the guests enjoyed an evening of dancing, music for which was furnished by the Catskill Mountaineers.

Bud Merriew of Kingston and his brother, Russell of Fishkill, have just returned from a quail hunt in Florida. They report a fine season for quail. Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Merriew of this city entertained at a quail dinner at their home. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tease and daughter, Marjorie, and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Gregory.

Ancient Mirrors
Mirrors in their primitive form were known to the ancients. The Hebrews used them, as did also the ancient Egyptians, Greeks and Romans. Prax-Helen taught the use of polished silver for mirrors as early as 325 B. C. Mirrors of glass were first made at Venice in 1300, but were not introduced into England until 1673. The mirror in its present form with the silver back was first introduced by Leibig in 1836.

Horses Gallop Over Walls And Chintz Invading Many Smart Modern Rooms

Saltshakers, figurines and prints go equine.

By MARGERY TAYLOR
(Copyright, 1935, By McCall's Magazine For The Kingston Freeman)

"A horse for my kingdom" seems to be the inverted slogan of the smart designers of almost anything that goes into a house.

Pottery, glass and china centerpieces, salt and pepper shakers, lamp bases and bookends—all horses. Horses etched on Swedish crystal, horses painted in silver on cerulean blue walls and ceiling of a luxurious powder room.

Horses have dashed into smart decorations because of the revival of eighteenth century English style and the creation of the new "classic modern." The former has brought back sporting prints of famous hunters on wood panelled or green painted walls, and old Staffordshire horse figurines.

The old classic artists loved Pegasus and rearing horses on coins, pottery, colts, a German or English antique.

paints them on mirrors and mirror tops of coffee tables, and applies them over fireplaces and on wall panels.

Classic equine heads sensitively sculptured in marble, stone or bronze are raised on fluted columns and marble horse heads in pairs make graceful bookends.

The newest linens and chintzes seem to be merely excuses for horse designs: one linen for drapes has a classical group of a Doric facade, a broken column, a helmet and arc Arabian pony on a brown, red, blue or green field.

An unusual room for a man, modern and "horsey," uses a deep blue linen with a horse head design in fine brush line in white. On a tall white chest, stands a magnificent black marble horse, and the andirons are chromium horses.

And for that dull corner—what could be more enlivening than a horse, whether a long-legged white Pegasus and rearing horses on coins, pottery, colts, a German or English antique?

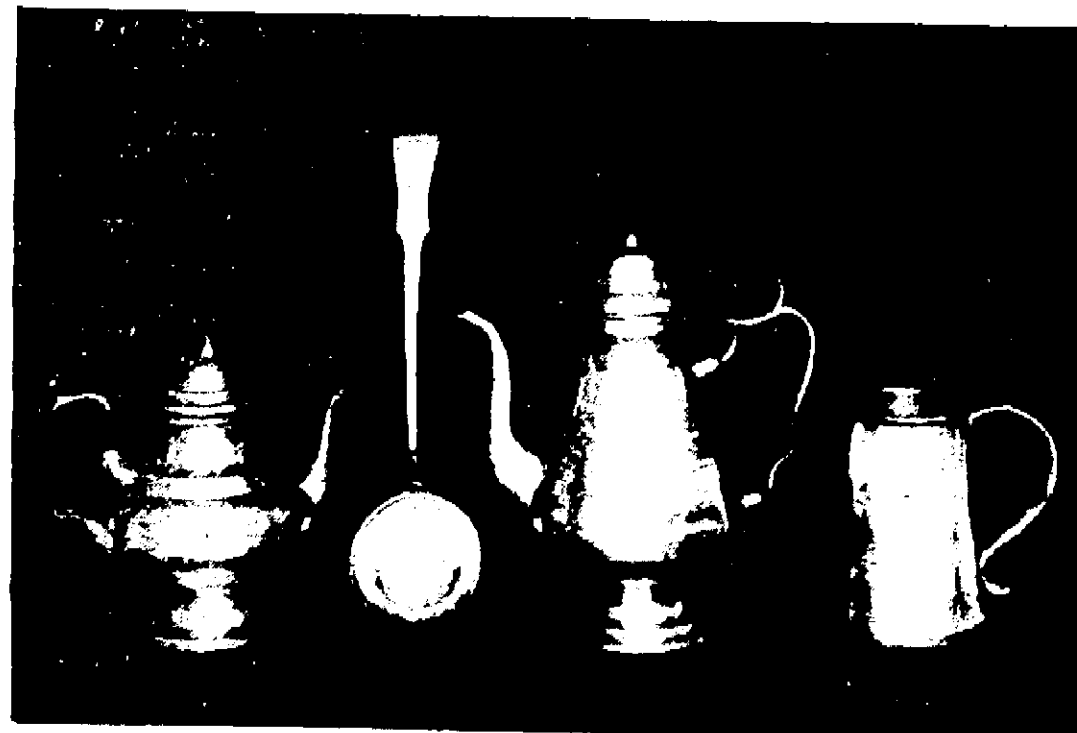

Jabot Adds Bright Touch

Versatile Frill Particularly Pleasing With Dark Dress

This jabot of lace interwoven with cotton goes far toward brightening up a dark dress. It's a versatile addition to one's wardrobe since it may be worn in a triangle in front, with the ends falling free, or with the ends attached to the shoulder, making a half circle of mesh which is particularly attractive over a dark background. It can be made by hand, of course.

OLD PEWTER WARE POPULAR IN MODERN HOMES

In your enthusiasm for a new home and new furniture don't discard your old pewter. These are pieces from the Kerfoot Pewter Collection, the most famous in America. This handsome teapot, bottle, coffee-pot and quart mug are specimens of the workmanship of J. Danforth, and are included in this collection which is noted both for its scope and variety as well as for the quality of the pewter which was indigenous to the American household from 1750 to 1850.

The celebrated Kerfoot Collection of American pewter was presented by Israel Sack at the First Annual Fine Arts Exposition, held at the Forum, RCA Building, Rockefeller Center, November 3, to December 1, 1934.

Among the many rare pieces included in this extensive collection are many magnificent tea pots and coffee pots.

To discuss any one type of pewter, such as the eighteenth century coffee pots or lamps, it is necessary to discuss the history of the pewter in America. The years 1750-1850 really bound and included the effective lifespan of the craft of pewter-making in America. As the last glimmer of the 17th century, the American pewter was far removed from the Old World. Wooden vessels were used for drinking and eating, and were not considered as important as the metal vessels of the Old World.

It was not until the middle of the 18th century, when the first settlers came to America, that the art of pewter-making was introduced. The first settlers brought with them the art of pewter-making, and it was not until the middle of the 18th century that the art of pewter-making was introduced.

The early makers of pewter in America were not concerned with the quality of the metal, but with the quantity. They used whatever metal was available, and the result was a very poor quality of pewter.

land were beginning, not only to produce their own metal, but to export it to the Old World, but so close the gap between us in wealth. And so, in the end, the final defeat and unconditional surrender of pewter on the main issue at stake came only about 19 years earlier than in England, and the struggle that lasted for a full century and over on the other side was thus dramatically compressed into half that time in America. The making of pewter plates for table use was finally abandoned in England between 1810 and 1815. In America this took place between 1820 and 1825. After this, in both countries, pewter maintained a more or less successful, guerrilla warfare, until about 1850. After this it disappeared.

MODES of the moment

Fashion hails the jacket-dress ensemble for spring.
—Lana Merwin

While separate dresses maintain their place in new season fashions, the dress ensemble is accepted with great enthusiasm and strongly represented in showings of new season styles.

Jackets with frocks appear mostly in hip and fingertip lengths, some belted, some boxy or fitted. According to the idea of the designer. In the long-coated models, both full length and three-quarter length are considered equally smart.

Contrast of fabric is also an important style note, printed or plaid taffetas and crepes often forming the top of the dress and trimming the jacket, as pictured in the sketch above. This ensemble of "cat's paw" sheer in navy blue is accented with blue and white plaid taffeta on the cuffs of the jacket sleeves and on the front trimming detail of the dress.

The hip-length jacket has saddle shoulders, well-shaped sleeves and patch pockets, while the dress has a large self-fringed and ruffled jabot of taffeta at front.

A straight sailor for spring, sketched above, uses shiny sugarcane straw. It has a slight bandeau and a green grosgrain band around crown with red and green feather fancy trimming the front.

BARBARA BELL FASHION PATTERNS

Pattern No. 1578-B

Smart Two-Piece Sports Dress

Two-piece costumes are the season's pets. The over-blouse to this outfit is fashioned with deeply notched revers, a generous collar, and a double-breasted front that limits its buttons to two. Sleeves may be long, or short. If the dress is to be wool, or silk suiting, for immediate wear, the long ones are recommended, since, no doubt, it will be worn with a fur piece, quite as though it were a suit. Later in the season, and for summer, short sleeves will be universal favorites in dresses of this type.

Skirts are straight, and apt to be plain. This one flaunts two side-pleats in the front, but has a very slim back. Reserve fulness is assured in flat pleats, one place, or another, in most sports skirts, unless they happen to be slashed at the hem.

If your choice for this dress is wool you will find Shepherd's checks, spring-like, and smart, home-spuns come in brightly colored plaids, and checks. And ribbed jersey appears in a variety of gay monotonies.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1578-B is designed in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Corresponding bust measures 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 14 (24) requires about 4 1/2 yards of 29 inch material.

Monday: Matron's frock in spring print.

Meat Prices Due To Rise But Vegetables And Fruits May Stay At Present Level

Washington (AP).—For the near future, and possibly for the entire year, housewives can expect a rise in meat prices, the consumers' guide says. The guide is a publication issued by the consumers' council of AAA.

Meat prices, in their rise, will be doing an "about face." Between September and December they showed a more important drop than other foods. They were dropping from the high level established in the late summer when it became evident the drought damage would be severe. These high levels could not be maintained.

The drop was hastened by the fact that farmers were forced to send their steers, hogs and lambs to market sooner due to low supplies of feed. As a result meat has been abundant on the markets.

But the situation will not last, the guide says. Livestock economists foresee materially lower supplies for early February. Higher prices are expected as a result.

Meat products and eggs also are expected to reflect the high price of feed.

Butter market has been upward. This indicates consumers' prices may rise further. However, the guide expects to see better imported from New Zealand if the price at New York goes any higher.

Egg prices usually drop at this time of year but they may not drop as much this year as usual. This is because the number of laying birds has been reduced, and perhaps also because the feed ration has been cut rather drastically in many poultry producing areas.

While egg prices will drop some from now until spring, hen prices can be expected to rise.

Vegetable Prices Lower.
In most of the other major foods the prices are expected to remain comparatively level, even in the classifications where the present price is a low one.

Fruit and vegetable prices are lower this year than last.

Reasonable prices in certain food crops are due to the large supplies on hand. The potato crop is 5.9 per cent above the five year average from 1927 to 1932; sweet potatoes, 5 per cent up; peas, 5.1 per cent up; oranges, 23.7 per cent up; grapes, 25.2 per cent up.

FEW SIMPLE KITCHEN TRICKS MAKE CULINARY ART EASIER

There are many small and seemingly unimportant items for the housewife to remember if she is to facilitate her work.

For instance, when taking the skin off a tomato do not try painfully to get it off with a sharp knife, or even by the more modern method of dipping it under the hot water faucet. Instead hold it on a fork over a flame on the stove and see how easily it comes off.

Another little trick is using the top of a milk bottle for the top center of your cake when you are sending it, avoiding the milk bottle top. Then remove this top and give the spot a bit of icing in contrast to the first.

If you wonder why we call compartments stick to the top box, try drying off the bottom of the compartments after filling with water. If you put them in over their heads.

Stewed tomatoes, well seasoned, blend nicely with chops or steaks, especially good on cold or rainy nights. Easily prepared too.

Until 1930, married women in North Carolina did not have the legal right to exercise control over property they owned, that privilege being reserved to husbands.

Americans have become so lazy that business men park their cars in front of their stores and offices, even if it does keep customers away.

The old-fashioned way out of this world was to turn out the gas. Now, there are a lot of people who take it in a different way by stepping on the gas.

Life is like a trip in a car. You never seem to be going very fast if you start fast.

Car Owner—I locked the car up before we left it. And now, confused it. I've lost the key.

Wife (helpfully)—Well, never mind dear! It is a fine night, we can ride home in the rumble seat.

About the only steps a pedestrian can take these days to protect his rights, are fast ones.

Henry's aunt (while out riding with him in his car)—Henry, dear, aren't you afraid of losing control of the car?

Henry—Constantly. I'm two installations behind already.

When the young lover of today calls to his mate, he rouses the whole neighborhood with his blooming horn.

Teacher—Junior, what does your father do when he finds anything wrong with the car?

Junior (truthfully)—He bawls mother out.

Fable: There were five women in one car and one man in the other car and the testimony proved the man wasn't to blame for the accident.

Teacher—The Chinese travel in junk. Now, can anyone tell me what junk is?

Bobby—Sure, daddy's automobile.

Never mind what has been; Lift your eyes and sing! Happiest of all the days, Coming years shall bring.

Timothy Hay—Yes, I've seen a few bad crop years in my time, too. One year our string beans were so poor the crop didn't even pay for the strings.

Al Fak—That's nothing, Tim. In '34 our corn crop was so bad that my old dad, who had a very poor appetite, ate 14 acres of corn at a single meal.

The man who knew enough, after he was drunk, to stay out of sight, and not put himself in evidence, would probably be so smart he wouldn't get drunk, any more.

Note from professor on Marian's report card: "Good worker, but talks too much."

Note from father over signature on back of card: "You ought to meet her mother."

A Word of Praise. I wonder why we are so prone to censure and to blame?

Can't we forget the faults, and seek for virtues to acclaim?

I wonder why we always see the flaws and faults alone?

Are there no virtues there? And are the faults worse than our own?

O, let us give a word of praise to those who daily plod;

That word may be the ray of hope that lights a soul to God.

Of one thing about hell we can be dead sure, it will be exactly what justice makes it; no better, no worse.

Co-ed (at baseball game)—Oh look, we have a man on every base!

Another Co-ed—That's nothing, so has the other side.

You can tell the educated, none but the ignorant have a satisfactory explanation of everything.

PATAUKUNK

Pataukunk, Jan. 25.—Mrs. Lester A. Wynkoop accompanied by Mrs. Pat Van Vliet were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Martine at New Paltz on Wednesday and were accompanied home by Miss Etta Martine who is spending a few days at the Wynkoop home.

John Wiegale called on a friend in Kingston on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Samuel Osterhout spent Wednesday afternoon calling on Mr. Richard Wiegale and Mrs. Henry Burgher.

Mrs. Jacob Terwilliger, who has been sick with the grip, is better.

Mrs. Isaac Van Vliet, who underwent an operation some time ago at the Kingston Hospital, is convalescing at the home of her son in Wawarsing. This is gratifying to her many friends. She will be returning to the home of her son in Kerhonkson Heights to spend a few days convalescing before returning to her own home.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Decker and family will spend the week-end in Kingston with Mrs. Decker's sister and family, Mrs. Clifton Pallen.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester A. Wynkoop were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Martine.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Davies and son, Jack, of Tobacco, spent the week-end with her parents in Kingston.

Glitter, Color Enliven Spring Fashions As Evening Wear Is Given Vivid Hues

Style Scouts Dazzled By New Creations of Designers

By Rita Ferris.
(Associated Press Fashion Editor.)

Paris (AP)—Color and glitter enliven the new evening clothes which Paris has designed for early spring wear. Though both vivid hues and sparkle appear in accents rather than in the body of the gown, there is many a bright and novel touch to spell "1935."

Pigskin belts on evening frocks, huge chrysanthemums dripping from waistlines, turquoise buttons and glass fabric tunics are among the effects which make the style scout "stop, look and listen."

Pigskin for Evening.

Molyneux adds a natural pigskin belt and gloves—of all things—to a black velvet evening frock and great, vivid long-petaled chrysanthemums to the waistlines of crepe evening gowns. Many of them are worn with little jackets dripping with gold or tortoiseshell paillettes.

Turquoise clips and buttons are Lelong's favorite accent for white satin or black velvet evening gowns. Most of them are made of tiny turquoise beads closely clustered in gold or silver, one of the most striking effects being achieved by a row of turquoise buttons on a black gown.

Clips and Clasp Used.

Lauren puts big crystal or rhinestone clips in the corners of square evening décolletés, while Patou uses emerald or ruby clips to repeat the color of stones which appear in big splashing belt clasps.

The same designer finds a new way of adding color by lining the panel trains of his new evening gowns with a contrasting shade.

Schiaparelli does things in her own way. She uses a shimmering fabric said to be woven with spun glass, for the crushed belts and tunics which appear with her night time frocks, and sometimes adds a saucy little bog of contrasting shade at the back waistline where fullness is concentrated.

One of her most striking frocks is a taffeta model in a new shade called Chinese ink (rich blue black) which has a diamond shaped apron or pink "glass" fabric with the top point held to the neck by a garland of pink gardenias.

Another of water green satin is designed with the skirt fullness all swept to the back and topped at the Highland, Jan. 25.—Orders received Thursday laid off August Gersch and his corps of workers on the highway. This means that the four men who worked under Mr. Gersch have to be on call should ice have to be removed from the Poughkeepsie bridge; otherwise they are on vacation for at least six weeks.

HIGHLAND

Several weeks ago four of the gang of eight men, Stephen Castellano, Louis Mazzetti, Charles Wilkino and Joe Romanoff were laid off. Those yesterday were Fred Fowler of Clintonville, Elmer Bennett, William Carter, Tony Bazzaro. This is the group that may be called out at any time on emergency work.

Mr. Gersch and his wife plan on driving south for a few weeks and the foreman during his absence will be Byron Brown, who has the job of driving the truck for the town highways.

The Rev. Derrell S. Haynes will take for his subject at the 10:45 hour of worship, "An Act of Faith." There will be a special musical number by the choir. Sunday school convenes at 9:30 o'clock and the Pioneer Club meets at 4:30 in the afternoon.

The Epworth League will hold a food sale on the afternoon of February 2. Mrs. Catherine Burger and Mrs. Herbert Campbell are the chairman.

A meeting of the trustees of the Presbyterian Church will be held Wednesday evening in the church hall.

Mrs. John J. Gaffney, Mrs. Lorin Abrams, Miss Rose Part, Miss Hilda Osberg, Mrs. Alice LeMont and Miss Eliza Raymond were luncheon guests of Mrs. Arthur Lorin LeMont at West Esopus on Thursday. Plans were proposed for the future meetings of the Women's Club of South-ara (later). The next meeting will be on February 12.

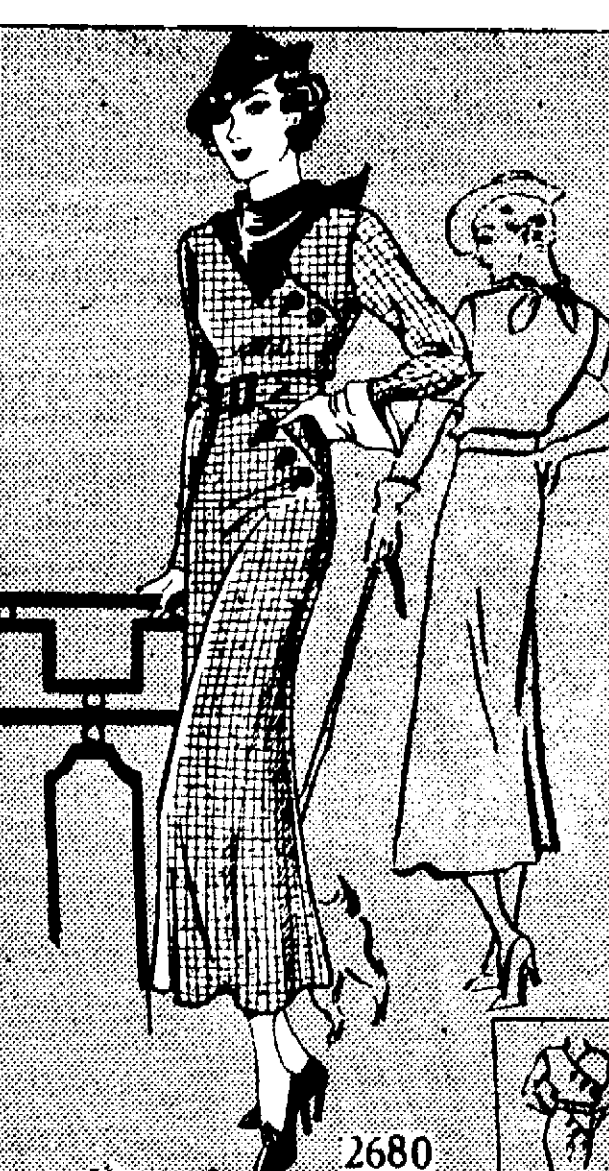

The Friday Bridge Club met last week with Mrs. George W. Pratt. Mr. and Mrs. George C. Hudson left Thursday to drive through to Florida to remain until spring.

Mrs. Annie Ireland of Poughkeepsie spent Thursday with her daughter, Mrs. Herbert Schmitt.

Frank Woodley underwent an eye operation at Vassar Hospital Friday morning. Dr. Neighbors was the surgeon in charge. A small bit of news is that Mr. Woodley's eye while at work a few weeks ago and it was thought to have been removed at once, but it was revealed that there was still something there which caused a great deal of suffering.

Here's a practical and smart day dress. It's remarkably easy to make, in spite of the fact that it looks so skillfully tailored. The scarf collar, which is detachable, is very youthful.

Almond green woolen mixture made the original with brown accents in bone buttons and taffeta collar.

Black crinkly crepe with white crepe is another smart suggestion that you can wear right through the spring.

A full attendance of members greeted D. D. President Mrs. Mabel Bodie of Kingston when she visited Vineyard Rehoboth Lodge Thursday evening. Noble Grand Miss Mabel Decker presided and took part in the drill which the officers gave in honor of their guest. Each officer presented Mrs. Bodie with a pink and green carnation in turn and from the flower was a long streamer of those colors and at its end a sachet. The streamers fall in line in shape on the floor. Following this a playlet, "Wanted: A Wife." The parts were taken by John Parks, Mrs. Volcan Clearwater, Mrs. Gertrude Peterson, Mrs. George Erickson, Mrs. Ralph Park, Mrs. Max Gruber. Questions and answers were given by two lines of all present. They were headed out hit and miss and the fun to hear the answer to a question. Refrainments were served by Herbert Schmitt, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schmitt, Mrs. Martha C. Schmitt, Louis Schmitt, North Schmitt, Herbert Schmitt, Miss Mary Schmitt.

Remember, then, at this season of the year keep a deep fire in your furnace and keep the turn damper as nearly closed as you can without causing the fire to go out. This will enable you to maintain a uniform temperature—avoid overheating—cut down chimney loss and save fuel. And it will give you a fire of sufficient body to provide more heat quickly if it suddenly turns cold.

Flavor of Oyster
The flavor of green onions is so important when the color is due to the abundance of chlorophyll in the diet, and the oysters in consequence of the rich diet are naturally of good quality. The diet, which tends to turn the whole body green if it is present in excess, changes the flavor and it is thought to be desirable. So instead of eating the oyster of course it is better to eat the oyster of course.

Many Birds Banded
By means of numbered metal bands, much new and valuable scientific information is being secured in the study of the habits of the various birds of the country. The birds are banded in the wing, and the number of the band is written on the leg. The birds are then released and the band is seen when they are recaptured. The band is then used to identify the bird and the information is recorded.

New Enrollment At High School

use of the high school gymnasium for their annual party, to be held Tuesday evening, January 29.

The P. T. A. Association of Schools No. 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and the High School, in cooperation with the Junior League, on request of Frances I. Craig, chairman of the committee, were given permission to use the High School auditorium on the afternoon of Saturday, February 3, when they will present the Wizard of Oz.

The Mendocino Club was granted permission to use the auditorium on Friday evening, March 22, for their annual complimentary concert. The finance committee presented the salary list for January, amounting to $26,283.74 and vouchers for $15 to the amount of $7,521.92. They were approved and drafts ordered drawn.

The building committee reported the work at School No. 1 and No. 2 completed. The work on the five acre at No. 4 is partially done.

The president by resolution was authorized to make all necessary arrangements for commencement exercises in the high school and grammar schools. Superintendent Van Ingen said that the graduating class at the high school in June would probably number over 200.

The Superintendent presented his report on attendance. He called attention to the fact that attendance was better than a year ago and that it was above the state average. Measures have been causing a good deal of trouble of late and it was reported that there were a good many cases.

It was moved that when the board adjourns it adjourn to Thursday evening, February 21, as the date for the regular meeting in February.

falls on Washington's birthday. Superintendent's Report To the Board of Education:

No habit is more important than that of regularity of attendance. Irregularity is demoralizing in its effects on scholarship and on character. Each day's absence also means a diminution in public funds, a large portion of which is apportioned on the basis of aggregate daily attendance.

Two important factors in maintaining good attendance are good health of the students, an efficient attendance enforcement department. The health department has been especially active with measles and some cases of whooping cough. While measles are of short duration, in the aggregate many days of school attendance are lost.

For the first four months of this school year the following partial summary of the work of the medical department is interesting and illuminating.

Number of pupils found with defects such as teeth and gums, tonsils, nose, eyes, ears, head, skin, scalp, etc. 1,518
Pupils watched and measured 2,212
Bones x-rayed 162
Personal advice on hygiene, etc. 1,170
First aid 234

This department is keenly alive to the importance of preventive and corrective work for the health and comfort of the children and for the public health of the city.

The following items taken from the December report of the attendance officers given an idea of their work in maintaining good attendance.

Cases reported to the officers for investigation 300
Cases reported involving relief 48
Adults and children taken to court 112
Visits to schools 212

The home investigations showed that 123 absences were unexcused, 622 were caused by illness of child, 22 were caused by serious illness or death in the family.

Total Registration

The following table shows total registration and per cent of attendance for the first four months of the present school year (1934-1935), and the preceding one (1933-1934):

	No. registered	Per cent attendance
September	5,262	95
October	5,238	96
November	5,237	96
December	5,215	95
Average		95 1/2

	No. registered	Per cent attendance
September	5,248	97
October	5,227	96
November	5,201	94
December	5,163	92
Average		95 1/2

This shows an increase in registration for December of 46 over last year, and an increase of one-half of one per cent in attendance for the four months.

The median per cent of attendance of all the cities of the state for 1933-1934 was 94.86, and for all the schools of the state 94.25.

Voodooism a Religion

Voodooism is far more than a fantastic cult, mere superstition or an of magical practices and superstitions. It is a religion whose followers believe in a great spirit, divine ruler of the universe. The word voodoo is the American corruption of the French word, "Vaudou," meaning sorcery.

The general belief is that Voodooism has brought to the Western Hemisphere, notably to Haiti, from West Africa by the negroes imported as laborers. There are those who say the cult probably can be traced back to the ancient worship of ancient Egypt.

SENATE INVESTIGATION PLANNED IN S. S. MOHAWK DISASTER

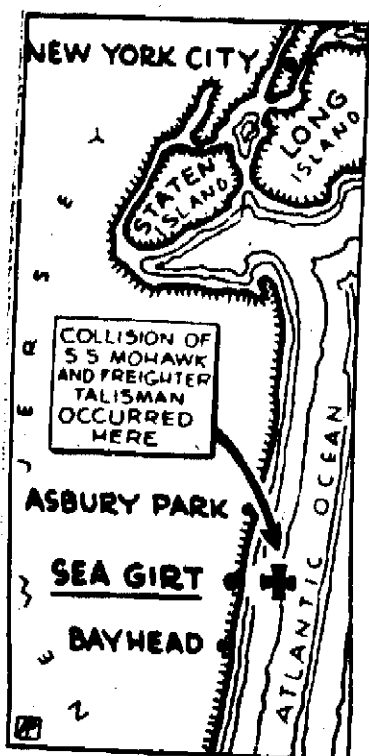

With a senate investigation promised of the ramming of the S. S. Mohawk, Ward liner, off the New Jersey coast by the freighter Tallisman, officials were frantically attempting to estimate the number of fatalities of the disaster. The Tallisman is shown above with the bow of the ship which crashed into the Mohawk. Center is the rescue vessel, the S. S. Algonquin, as it nosed into New York harbor with survivors aboard. Steering Apparatus
Went Wrong

Bureau of Investigation for the Department of Justice, also announced his men were "checking into" circumstances of the disaster.

Foremost in the subjects under inquiry were the condition of the Mohawk's life saving equipment. The discipline of her men, and reports that her automatic steering apparatus had gone "haywire."

Ward Line attorneys, inferentially denying those reports and the allegation of the Tallisman's captain that blame rested on the Mohawk, said the cause could not be determined before the investigation.

Mackey radio officials called "incredible" the reported explanation that the Mohawk stopped outside New York harbor to calibrate her radio compass.

"When the ship left her dock the radio compass, met with all the government requirements," said a spokesman for the radio company.

Chief officer Cort M. Pedersen, only surviving officer of the liner, was slated to be the principal witness. Officers and seamen of the Tallisman, as well as Mohawk crew members, also were called.

More Government Control

Coincidentally in Washington a change in shipping laws to give the government close supervision over ship designs was reported to have been recommended to President Roosevelt.

Until late last night Coast Guard boats and planes, their crews bundled in heavy clothing because of the sharp cold, searched for additional bodies.

They described the sunken steamer, six miles southeast of Sea Girt light, as a menace to navigation. A light-and-bell buoy was placed over the spot, also marked by two of the Mohawk's bobbing lifeboats. Their lines apparently had become entangled in the rigging.

Seamen were skeptical of the possibility of salvaging the vessel, on which A. G. Bates, operating official of the Clyde-Mallory Line, said he believed about $1,000,000 insurance was carried.

Shipboard board officials said the government had invested no money in the $2,000,000 liner, built ten years ago.

Twenty-five separate families of Seattle are represented in the student body at North Carolina State College and the Browns and Johnsons are tied for second place with 27 each.

60 Farm Bureau
Committeemen Met

About 60 committeemen of the Ulster County Farm Bureau met at McCabe's restaurant on Thursday evening for supper, followed by a program of business and entertainment. C. C. DuMont, president of the Farm Bureau, presided. Final membership reports were given by the various community chairmen showing that a total of 662 members have now paid their dues for 1935. This is considerably ahead of the same date a year ago.

After the supper, entertainment was provided by the Blue Ridge Rangers and Fred Van Deusen. Humorous talks on "Why their sections of the county are best," were given by W. T. Jenkins, Kenneth Taber and A. P. Kaplan. Judging by laughter, Mr. Jenkins easily won for Clintondale.

Frank Gaffney, chairman of the County Fruit Committee, and Theodore Oxholm gave very interesting reports on the work of this committee.

Mr. Oxholm is chairman of a sub-committee which is considering the development of a fruit market, particularly for apples. A conference is planned with officials of the State Department of Agriculture and Markets next week to discuss future plans. The fruit committee is also sponsoring "Ulster County Apple Week," starting on Monday in honor of the eastern meeting and show of the New York State Horticultural Society here on January 20, 21 and February 1. Posters and hand bills are being distributed, inviting the public to the show.

John Miller, chairman of the county poultry committee, gave a most interesting report on the results achieved by his committee. He reported that the State Farm Bureau Federation Poultry Committee is now a reality and is functioning successfully. Other talks were given by Bernard Jor, County 4-H Club Agent, on the Junior activities at the fruit show next week.

The occasion was the first county-wide get-together of Farm Bureau committeemen in several years. In spite of the unfavorable weather, all but two communities in the entire county were represented.

Stage Is Set
For Fruit Show

All indications point toward the largest Eastern meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society here next week, January 30, 31, and February 1. It will be held in the State Armory on North Manor avenue. The work of getting the large drill hall in shape for exhibits will begin early Monday morning. By Wednesday morning it will be completely filled with commercial and educational exhibits, ready for the thousands of guests. This year railings and uniform standards are being provided for all of the booths. This will add considerably to the attractiveness of the exhibits. Admission to the exhibits is free to the public.

The elaborate speaking program will take place in the ballroom at the Armory. This is limited to members of the Horticultural Society but it is expected that between 400 and 500 fruit growers will be in attendance at all of the sessions.

The Farm Bureau Fruit committee is sponsoring "Ulster County Apple Week" starting January 28, in honor of the show. Hand bills and posters have been prepared and apples will be distributed in the exhibit hall during certain periods on the days of the show. A special half-hour radio program was sponsored on Friday over station WGNV, featuring the Blue Ridge Rangers of Kingston.

A local committee consisting of Leslie Herring and C. C. DuMont have been in charge of all preliminary arrangements. On Monday, Roy McInnes, secretary of the Horticultural Society, will arrive in Kingston to take charge of final arrangements. The show opens Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock and will continue through Friday afternoon. Thursday evening, January 21, the big banquet, one of the outstanding events of the show, will take place at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Automotive Dealers
See Better Times Ahead

A hint of better times in the offing may be seen in the action taken by the Kingston Automotive Dealers' Association, at its annual meeting held at the Governor Clinton Hotel at five o'clock Friday afternoon. For two years past the association has suspended the section of their by-laws calling for payment of dues.

At the meeting Friday it was decided not to repeat this action and the secretary was directed to send out bills for the 1935 dues. Several of the members voiced pleasant recollections of the annual clambakes and dinners of the association and said that members more than got their money's worth for the dues they paid. The sentiment seemed to be unanimous. There was a little difficulty at first as to whether the question should be taken up under the head of old or new business. President A. H. Chambers, who presided at the meeting, said that if they got the dues it was new business, if they didn't it was old business.

In the absence of the secretary, Monroe T. Southard, on account of illness, the minutes of the meeting of January 21, 1934, were read by Joseph P. Belcher, who acted as secretary pro tem.

The report of the treasurer, J. David Schenck, showed the association to be in good financial condition. Disbursements for the year included a contribution of $50 to the V. M. C. A.

The members showed their confidence in the present officers by re-electing them unanimously, the following being named: President, A. H. Chambers; vice-president, Roy M. Saffell; secretary, Monroe T. Southard; treasurer, J. David Schenck.

President Chambers' inaugural address was confined to the statement that there would be a clambake this year—if the dues were paid. Incidentally this makes Mr. Chambers' fourth term as president of the association.

A general discussion of numerous matters of interest to the members followed. One of them was a proposition to have all matters of general advertising, programs, and the like, handled by one man, who would represent the association. No final action was taken, however.

Following the meeting the members joined in a dinner and meeting with the members of the Ulster County Automotive Trade Association.

Interference addresses were given by speakers being Charles Tughy, A. Albany, chairman of the New of a living income, started off well on Wednesday and the committee which is carrying on the campaign, headed by Mrs. Delancey Matthews, is encouraged. It will be of interest to the people of the city to know that since its opening there have been members of the home family from Ellenville, Willow, Highland, Clintondale, Saugerties, New Paltz and St. Remy to the number of 52 per cent of the total membership.

With the greatly reduced incomes from investments, etc., and lowered interest the home income is not now sufficient to maintain it.

The members of the Board of Trustees and of the Board of Directors are hoping that there will be many people who will be able and willing to make annual pledges of such amount as convenient, to cover a number of years, in order that it may not be necessary to make a money-raising campaign for Kingston's Home for the Aged a yearly event.

BIRTHDAY BALL CAMPAIGNERS

Three leaders who figure in the 1935 Birthday Ball for the President talk over final details of the national campaign at luncheon. Standing is General George Gibbs, president of the Postal Telegraph Company, who has thrown his organization back of a plan whereby those unable to attend a Birthday Ball can join in sending a giant greeting to the President and to contribute to the war against infantile paralysis. Seated (left) is Col. Carl Byoir, General Director on the National Committee for the 1935 Birthday Ball. Grover A. Whalen (seated right) is chairman of the Committee of American Business for the affair. He is organizing business leaders to attend a dinner before the Birthday Ball in the Waldorf-Astoria in New York City. Each visible guest at the dinner will represent invisible guests who, unable to attend the Ball, will listen in on the nationwide radio broadcast. Tickets for invisible guests are being sold at a dollar each, and the money will be turned over to the Birthday Ball Commission for Infantile Paralysis Research, of which Col. Henry L. Doherty is chairman.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—"Shooting on the streets" is practically a forgotten adventure among the movie troupes of Hollywood, where large enclosed studio precincts offer protection from quickly gathering curious crowds.

Occasionally still, usually at night, the movie town's streets are enlivened by the activities of a camera outfit, operating in roped-off sections of thoroughfares with police handy to keep the crowds back. The crowds gather as eagerly as they did of yore, when tourists could see films in the making simply by taking a stroll or a drive around town. It was simpler then because the film men had no worries about sound equipment, and no need for silence. The town lost a great deal of its "color" when talk sent the actors scuttling to their sound stages.

Londoners Courteous

In London, reports George O'Brien, street shooting is about the same as in any American city, except that the crowds are a little more courteous.

"We never had to remonstrate with them," he says. "They seemed to sense the importance to us at least—of what we were doing, and they have a great respect for their police. If a Bobby asks a crowd to move on, they immediately comply with the request. Needless to say, we never went anywhere without a Bobby. Before starting in the morning, we presented ourselves to the precinct station in which was our location, and a Bobby was assigned to us, with instructions as to how long we could shoot there."

O'Brien's company went to London for scenes in a "western," "Trafalgar Square, Hyde Park, outside Buckingham palace and along the Thames river. The title, "The Cowboy Millionaire," suggests how London locales are fitted into a "western" plot.

Fairy-Tale Revivals

Interest in color photography may lead to a revival of fairy-tale films, neglected by the producers for many years. Currently screen technicians are laboring on effects for fantasy, as in "She" and "Dante's Inferno," and "A Midsummer Night's Dream." In the latter, fairies hold festival in sylvan court, and stars are brought close to earth through the good offices of electricians. From such goosier stories the portrayal of familiar stories from Grimm and Hans Christian Andersen is but a short step. In the old days "Jack and the Beanstalk" and other nursery classics gave child actors, among them Virginia Lee Corbin, starring roles. The "effects" obtainable now have progressed far beyond even the remembered excellence of those in Herbert Brenson's "Peter Pan."

PORT EWEN LAMEN' AID PLANS (COMEDY TUESDAY)

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Port Ewen Reformed Church will present three plays on Tuesday evening, January 29, at the church hall. The funniest of this trio of comedies is "Elizabeth's Young Man," and you'll find it one big laugh from start to finish.

Mrs. Tracy Jordan is "Elizabeth Orr," the trained nurse who writes her aunt that she is taking a patient to the Fairview Asylum for the insane. When she turns up with John Martin, played by Albert Seibert, whom you all know as an expert comedian, many complications arise. Mrs. Carey Seer takes the part of Cousin Lucretia Lanning, who has a very curious and romantic disposition quite different from that of Miss Abigail Orr, played by Mrs. Richard Terrell. She is a New England spinster with settled views and character, a stern exterior, but a warm heart. And when these two combine forces to assist Elizabeth in amusing her "Young Man," well—you can just imagine what happens.

The casts of the other two plays, "The Alpe" and "The Girl Who," are also working.

Derry Bombing.

Moscow, Jan. 26 (AP)—Reports reaching here that four Soviet airplanes had crossed the frontier of Manchukuo and bombed the city of Pochunkhaya were strenuously denied today in government quarters, which termed the report "absolutely nonsense."

No Reason To Hurry.

Douglas, Eng., Jan. 26 (AP)—Jimmy Walker, New York's former mayor, saw no reason today why he should hurry home "when everyone else is coming here for the summer."

The Post Honor
The name is given to the entirely unknown post—on groups of poets, perhaps to whom is assigned the authorship of the "Hill" and the "Columbia," the greatest monuments of modern or modern epic poetry. It is much doubtful, says the Washington Star, whether any such person ever existed, but the name rests on very ancient traditions and the date at which the poems are thought to have been written. Some shape is collectively put at anywhere between the Twelfth and the Ninth century B. C. Homer's birthplace is quite unknown.

Jack Troy's Luckies Trounce Monticello Quintet, 41-25

Last evening at White Eagle Hall, the score at the end of the hall Jack Troy's Luckies tossed rings at 11-4. The score at the end of the hall was 41-25, winning by the decisive count of 41 to 25.

Norm Niles led the local attack and was the high scorer for the evening. He garnered seven dices for a count of 14.

Howard "Red" La Flamme, former Colgate player who is going south in February with the New York Giants, was the star for the losers. He sank three fields and three fouls for a count of nine.

The Luckies good team work was noticeable and each of the players took a turn at the scoring. Chilton, the left forward, chalked up three fields and two fouls and Joyce accounted for three and one.

In a preliminary game to the main attraction the Crusaders played the Pickups and trounced them 22 to 10.

Kingston High Quintet Loses To Poughkeepsie Five, 38-30

With Charlie Bock leading the attack in the final frame, the Kingston High Varsity made a gallant bid yesterday in the local gym to overcome Poughkeepsie's lead in their second encounter of the season, but the Bridge City boys were not to be beaten. They took the game by a final count of 38-30.

Taffee, Poughkeepsie's left forward, starred for the winners with four fields and six fouls for a total of 14. He was closely followed for high count honors by Charles Bock who garnered 13.

Poughkeepsie was in the lead at the end of the first period by 25-10, and was leading 31-17 at the three-quarter mark. At this point the local five started its rally, scoring 13 points to 7 for its opponents in the final quarter.

Kingston trailed by one point in scoring from scrimmage but sank only six fouls to 12 for Poughkeepsie.

The box score:

Score at end of first half: Poughkeepsie 25, Kingston 10. Fouls committed—Kingston 19, Poughkeepsie 10.

Erie Ny Will Race Here

New York, Jan. 26 (AP).—Erie Ny of Sweden is back in this country to seek foot-racing revenge. The little middle-distance star, conqueror of Luigi Beccali, Italy's Olympic 1500-meter champion last summer, will run in four meets in New York and Boston and confidently expects to make a much better showing than he did on American soil two years ago. Ny will make his first start in the Wampanoag mile of the Millrose A. A. games next Saturday night, facing America's crack trio of Bill Bonthron, Glenn Cunningham and Gene Vonke.

Legionnaires Defeat Jersey City Reds By One Point In Fast Game

Last night at the Howard street armory in Springfield, the Kingston Legionnaires beat out the Jersey City Reds in the last minute of a thrilling contest. The final count was 28-27. At the end of the half Kingston was in the lead at 16-10.

Keritka starred for the Legion with four fields and a foul for a count of nine. Kelly was high scorer for the losers with a total of eight.

The game was hard fought throughout and the result was in doubt at all times. The finish was a thriller with Kingston trailing by one point with a couple of minutes to play. Husta tossed one in from the floor and the boys held their slim lead to the final whistle.

The box score:

Legionnaires	FG.	FP.	Tot.

SPORT SLANTS

by Pap

Leave it to Connie Mack to come up with some revolutionary idea. The veteran manager of the Philadelphia Athletics insists that his plans for 1935 place Jimmy Fox behind the bat.

Mack followed that announcement with the release of Charley Berry, who caught 99 games in 1934 before he fractured his leg in Cleveland. That left only Frank Hayes, a powerful youngster who came directly to the Athletics from high school.

So it looks as though Mack is really serious about his plans for Fox.

Jimmy joined the Athletics as a catcher in 1925. He was sent to Providence that year but returned to Philadelphia before the season ended. He was strictly a catcher in 1926 and 1927.

Since that time he has done no regular catching, playing almost exclusively at first base. Occasional injuries to the regular third basemen forced him to fill in at the hot corner now and then.

Cuts Hitting Availability.

For the last six years, he has neglected the catching phase of his baseball education. Now he is going to try to pick up the loose ends and begin again.

Fox is without a doubt one of the most versatile players in baseball, so it is possible that he can swing it.

"If Connie is willing to try the experiment, I certainly am," Fox declared on his return from touring the Orient with the major leaguers.

There is at least one drawback to the experiment. Fox's outstanding value to his team is his slugging. As a catcher he will be doing well, indeed, if he is able to play 100 games a season. How are the Athletics going to benefit by having their best slugger on the bench one-third of the season?

There were only eight catchers in the major leagues last season who played in 100 or more games. They were equally divided, four in each league. Rick Ferrell, of the Boston Red Sox, with 128 to his credit, topped the American Leaguers.

The absence of Fox's big bat at various times is certain to weaken the club. Some surmise that Connie Mack will overcome this loss by sending Jimmy to first base at such times as he takes a rest from catching.

Putting Big Shot on the Spot.

It appears sort of reckless to take such great chances with the team's big siege gun in a position where the hazard of injuries is ever present. Particularly it is going to be dangerous in Fox's case, where lack of practice behind the bat for so long a period may have blunted his catching skill. Rusty as Fox is almost certain to be, it looks as though Mack was inviting an injury which might cost the Athletics their chances in the pennant race.

Fox is still regarded by many as a callow youth, yet 1935 will mark the 11th season he has spent in the A's uniform. A veteran major leaguer and a ten-year man, and all while he is still well under the 30-year mark. He passed his 27th birthday last October. He is truly one of the wonders of the diamond.

While he isn't making any pretensions, Delbert hopes to bring home a few points for Uncle Sam.

And if he's half as good a runner as he was two years ago, this Lamb will be a "hot" on the ice.

San Francisco, Jan. 26 (AP).—Seeking a share of $5,000—a prize or trophies, 22 golfers of the San Francisco match play open tournament took off today on the trap across fairways of the Presidio Club course.

Larry Little, American and British amateur title-holder, who is playing on his home course, the Deira, national open king, and Paul Ryan, White Plains, N. Y., star who ranks at the top of the Professional Golfers' Association, headed the parade. This time moved into the match play rounds without the necessity of qualifying because of their titles.

Win Over 12 Fights

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP).—When John L. Sullivan boxed Teddy Ryan at Washington City in 1882, W. C. Lyons was at the ringside. Since that day Lyons—now administrator—hasn't missed a championship fight. He saw the young bank clerk, Jim Corbett, whip Sullivan. Ruby

Bob Fitzsimmons take Corbett, and on down the line—more than 50 years—to the night Max Baer knocked Primo Carnera. Known as "Cybernetic Bill," a profile and fast talker from Colorado, Lyons is a walking record book on ring statistics. He thinks Dempsey is the hardest hitter the game has ever seen.

St. Louis Browns Have Two New Sensational Hurlers For 1935

New York, Jan. 26 (AP).—A pair of minor league twirlers who between them have rolled up the impressive record of 52 victories against 16 defeats, will blossom out in the livery of the St. Louis Browns this season.

These sharpshooters, whose combined record is better than the 1934 winning percentage of Dizzy Dean and Co., are Fay Thomas, drafted from Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League, and Ashley Hillin, from San Antonio of the Texas League. Both are right-handers.

Thomas turned in one of the best baseball performances of 1934 with 28 victories and four defeats. Hillin won 24 games and dropped 12.

Between them the celebrated Dean brothers accounted for 49 wins for the Cardinals while losing 18.

The new Brownies didn't collect their victories merely by finishing games, either. Thomas tossed in 26 complete games and Hillin in 24.

Dundee Gets Decision Over Risko, Gen. Phelan Finds Error By Judge

New York, Jan. 26 (AP).—Eddie (Babe) Risko, who came to the big town heralded as the "uncrowned king" of the middleweights, emerged today the victim of a beating by the veteran Vince Dundee as well as one of the most ridiculous official fumbles in recent New York ring history.

Declared the winner at first after ten tame rounds in the headliner of last night's card at Madison Square Garden, while 8,221 cash customers "boomed" lustily, Risko was quickly deprived of the referee's decision by the discovery of a mistake in the score card of one of the two judges.

How They Voted

This judge, Sidney Scherlin, had marked Risko the winner, although scoring five rounds for Dundee, four for Risko and one even. Meanwhile the other judge, Jack Britton—the old welter king—gave Dundee a 7-3 margin on rounds. This apparent split left it up to Referee Ed Gahan, who promptly voted the decision to Risko.

While the demonstration of disapproval was still in progress, boxing commissioners quickly discovered the mistake on Scherlin's card and General John J. Phelan, chairman of the state ring board, reversed the decision, making it officially unanimous, in spite of the verdict of the referee, who is called on only in cases where the judges disagree.

Dundee Rightful Winner

To ringsters, it appeared Dundee's greater experience, aggressiveness and body punching easily entitled him to the decision, despite Risko's rally in the last few rounds. The Baltimore veteran, shuffling and weaving, took the sting out of Risko's wild swings and steadily piled up points. The Associated Press scored six rounds for Dundee and four—the 3rd, 7th, 9th and 10th for Risko.

The best fight of the night resulted in a close eight-round decision for Leonard De Genio, New York lightweight sensation, over Steve Haisko of Rochester, N. Y.

Use Sun Calendar

The Mayan-Quiche Indian, often a student of the ancient Mayans, have a sun calendar system much more accurate than the calendar of civilized races.
